Buster and the Pail

Level 5 · 13 pages

Buster Bear sat in a big patch of berries.

He ate and ate. The berries were sweet.

"I will be quick," said Buster. He was shy of boys.

But the berries were so good! He forgot to be quick.

The sun came up high. Buster did not look up.

He went to a new patch of berries.

There sat a pail! It was full of big berries.

A boy had picked them. The boy was far off.

Buster sniffed the pail. He gave it a little poke.

A few berries fell out. Nothing else happened.

"Hm," said Buster. "Berries, and no leaves!"

He sat down by the pail. He was so glad.

Buster ate every last berry.
